GRUNTSTUFF

Search warrant executed at Fotis Dulos' home day after suicide attempt

By Donna Miller

connecticut authorities executed a warrant on Wednesday at the home of accused wife-killer Fotis Dulos as he remained in "dire" situation at Jacobi Medical Middle from a suicide attempt.

The search at Dulos' Farmington mansion — the place he was discovered contained in the storage Tuesday — was performed by Connecticut State Police, although it's unclear what they had been on the lookout for, the native police division introduced on Twitter.

The Greek actual property developer tried to kill himself by attaching a hose to his automotive's exhaust pipe with the engine operating round identical time he was due in courtroom to study whether or not his bail can be revoked and he'd be tossed again in jail.

Regardless of his situation, the bail listening to went forward

Wednesday, with the choose ruling Dulos will face re-arrest if and when he returns to courtroom.

The choose additionally upped his bail by $500,000 — to $6.5 million. Dulos initially posted a $6 million bond on Jan. 9 and was launched to deal with arrest.

The bond, nevertheless, was in query after the corporate that backed it, Palmetto Surety, raised issues over "imperfections within the collateral" supplied by Dulos: his residences in Farmington and New Canaan, in response to courtroom papers.

In the meantime, it was reported Wednesday {that a} former co-worker and "greatest pal" of Dulos helped him submit his unique bond.

Anna Curry, of North Carolina, signed a $three million promissory notice and wrote two checks totaling $147,000 to assist cowl Dulos' bond, in response to information obtained by the Hartford Courant.

The 2 had labored collectively at a New York monetary agency, and Curry was with Dulos on Tuesday earlier than his suicide attempt, the report stated, citing sources.

"It's my understanding and perception these had been previous associates who developed a friendship years in the past at work and out of loyalty to that friendship she has assisted Mr. Dulos," Dulos' lawyer, Norm Pattis, instructed the paper.

"We should always all be fortunate sufficient to have such a loyal pal." ■